New Dress For Centennial

Mrs. A. J. Zastrow, of Spout Spring, invited the cameraman to her living room the other day for a look at her new Centennial gown, one of many being sewn for various 100th commemoration events being planned for this year. The dress, fashioned with an eight-gore skirt, has almost ten yards of blue and white checked cotton material in it. The tight fitting cuff on the sleeve and button down front (there were no zippers 100 years ago) attest to the authenticity of the dress made for Mrs. Zastrow by Mrs. Clifford Plunkett. Mrs. Zastrow has among her many Civil War mementoes, a furlough paper issued to her father, Schyler Patterson Coleman, on August 17, 1863, giving him permission to visit his parents. The Colemans, Sr., who were then living in Appomattox. The Colemans, Sr., had four sons in the war, one of whom died in prison at Fort Monroe, Va. in June of 1865. Mrs. Zastrow's mother also watched two brothers march off to battle, and Mrs. Zastrow, a faithful member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, has carefully preserved many family pictures and relics of Civil War Days.

Church News —

Appomattox Seventh-day Adventist Church
Elder D. Clark, Pastor

Church services are multiplying in the jungles of Peru— a Seventh-day Adventist headquarters in Washington, D.C. gave highlights of a 25th anniversary of Adventist facilities in South America, visited by the denominational treasurer, Reuben Hunter - treasurer, Owen Hart.

The undertreasurer reported a record increase in membership activity in many areas. He declared that the churches' tithe gathered at Pucallpa in the Peruvian Amazon Highlands has television contacts. "It used to take 30 days of travel to get to Pucallpa from Lima," Navata Mission," he said. "With our plane, the pilot, Walter Stahl' we did it in a few minutes."

Walter Stahl", a five-year veteran of Hello courier, with 60 hour engine, has been in Peru for a year, but almost 20 years. Indians in isolated villages have built 5 airstrips for Walter Peters, the pilot, Lima, Kansas, drew up an airstrip. Blake said, "I chose out to the Indian tribes. "Like magic the word began to take shape. Clyde was landing on a flat act that requires concentration and courage in many ways. Over it goes the "Fernando" carries medical equipment and a nurse, sometimes

Evelyn Muir, who hails from San Francisco and sometimes Evelyn Nordeordff, a South American nurse. Already the plane has been the means of saving lives — or pilot who would have died without the medical aid the plane brought.

Blake reported that recently, as a result of the work done by one Christian Indian from the Nevati Mission, which is on the "Fernando Stahl's" circuit, 300 of his tribe accepted Christ.

The undertreasurer also reported enlargement of adventist publishing house in Brazil and an increase of membership in 1964 of 18,000 for the South American Division. "The Gospel is spreading rapidly into the remote regions of Paraguay, too," he added.

Youth Speaks by Dan Williams

Would you rob your child? What a ridiculous idea! You are striving to provide a good home environment for your child. You want him to have the best that life can offer. You want him to be well trained, thoroughly educated and equipped to face life courageously and victoriously.

You see to it that his physical needs are met and that he is clothed, well-fed, given adequate medical attention when required. You are eager of course, to see that your child receives every cultural opportunity that your community affords, socially as well as educationally.

All of the cultural institutions in your community the Sunday School is most important. Yet many parents are permitting their children to grow up outside of the Sunday School in total ignorance of the Bible and its vital message for today!

The great majority of prominent men and women in America agree that the Sunday School is our most indispensable institution.

Come to Sunday School and Church next Sunday, and bring the entire family. Visit us at the New Testament Baptist Church, 14 and Hendricks St., Lynchburg Va. Sunday School 9:45 a.m.
